Overview

Alexis is a Shareholder in Littler's Houston office, where she has been practicing for the past 11 years. She represents employers in all areas of labor and employment law and appears in state and federal courts and before various federal agencies. In addition to her litigation practice, Alexis regularly counsels clients on various employment law matters, and she provides training and speaks frequently on a variety of topics for employer and industry groups.

Before beginning her legal career, Alexis served as an associate dean of the College of Business and Economics and assistant professor of management at Houston Baptist University, where she taught courses in human resources and employment law at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Prior to that, Alexis was a human resources professional in the public sector, where her focus was employee benefits, organizational policies and procedures and training.

Alexis received her Bachelor of Science in Psychology from Texas A&M University, her Master of Science in Human Resources Management from HBU, and her JD from the University of Houston Law Center. Alexis is board certified in labor and employment law by the Texas Board of Legal Specialization and is a Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR®).
